Scenes at Southport are Both Progressive and Friendly

Big events, little events, big people, little people, and friendly people make school life at Southport, the "big-little" school. In this book, the 1948 Anchor, are pictures of these big events and little events and these people and the classes they attend, the clubs to which they belong, and the activities in which they participate. There are accounts, too, of the progress they and their school are making, for this has been a year of progress at Southport. The school was granted a first-class commission, new clubs were organized, new classes were introduced, and plans were made for a new school building.

First picture: Typifying big events at Southport is the senior play, given each fall to raise funds for the Anchor. This year the play was "Strictly Formal," and some of the people who appeared in it are, front, Virginia Hohn and Dolores Nerding; and, back, Marvin Christie, Beverly Baird, Rosemary Arndt, and Bob Bidlack.

Second picture: Among the friendly people at Southport who can be seen strolling through the halls between classes are Horton Smith, who is heading for his English class, and Ray Bertram and Tom Swift who are going to shop class.

Third picture: One of the biggest events taking place at Southport is the annual Easter Sunrise Service held in Roosevelt Stadium. Miss Blanche Penrod, left, Dean of Girls, was the chairman of the committee for this year's service. C. C. Leedy, right, principal, was also on the committee.

Fourth picture: Basketball is as big at Southport as it is in any Indiana high school. Not only is a Friday night game a big occasion for school pupils but also for the adult fans of the community who fill the gymnasium to capacity at every home game.

Bottom Row, Picture one: Nancy Ford, an outstanding soprano who had the lead in the 1947 and 1948 operettas and placed first division in the State Music Contest.

Picture two: Ann Montgomery, who wrote such a comprehensive transportation article that she received a letter of commendation from the New York Central Railways.

Picture three: Wendell Leedy and Jack Whitaker, right and left, who placed in the mechanical drawing contest at Purdue, and Wilbur Elsner, center, who won first.

Typical Characteristics

These outstanding pupils have earned the right to the name celebrity by gaining recognition from outside the school as a result of scholastic activities.

Top Row, picture one: Roy Bader, who is the only boy in Marion County to win the F.F.A. Degree of Hoosier Farmer.

Picture two: Beverly Baird, who was sent as a representative to Girl's State in 1947.

Picture three: Betty Anderson, standing, and Mary Frances Hummer. Betty is second vice-president of the State F.B.L.A. and Mary Frances treasurer.

Middle Row, picture one: Rose Marie Bockes and Joan Gluesenkamp. These girls broadcast on the Sears' Farm Program for the 4-H Club.

Picture two: Nancy Hendricks, who was selected valedictorian because of her scholastic activities.

Picture three: Barbara Mitchell and Dick Prather who were delegates to the City-County School Red Cross Convention at Manual High School.

Administration

NELSON P. SWIFT is the trustee of Perry Township, under whose progressive administration Southport High School attained its first class commission as a result of the Indiana University survey.

WALTER G. KELLAM, vice-principal, Booster Club sponsor, and Dean of Boys, has proved a friendly teacher and helpful leader to every pupil of Southport High School. His advice to freshman classes will always assure his popularity.

MISS BLANCHE PENROD, Dean of Girls, Senior-ority sponsor, and Biology teacher serves Southport girls sympathetically and in a friendly manner. Under her guidance the women of tomorrow are formed.

C. ELLIS ROBINS, efficient sponsor of the senior class, has the friendship and gratitude of every senior. His understanding leadership of the students last year is outstanding. He also teaches chemistry and physics.

They Help "Make" Southport High School

In the school year of 1947-1948 the progress of Southport High School toward better education shows the true leadership of its executives. Under the township direction of trustee Nelson P. Swift, C. C. Leedy, principal, and the faculty have successfully guided another graduating class through its four years of secondary training.

As this school year marks greater strides toward better education, it also marks the true inspiration of Southport High School's student body by its faculty.
The senior class gratefully thanks this faculty, those present and absent, for its years of education which will always prove invaluable.

Senior Personalities Who Bid Good-Bye . . .

These three "big and friendly" people at Southport have led the class of 1948 through their last year of high school. Dale Bough, left, served as senior class president; Virginia Hohn, center, kept the records of the group in her role as class secretary-treasurer; and Robert Bidlack, right, served his third year as vice-president of the class of 1948.

Dolores Nerding, a member of the graduating class, has won recognition for herself and her school with her poetry. Her poems have twice appeared in the National High School Poetry Anthology.

COMMENCEMENT

Good-bye, good-bye, dear Southport.
I bid thee fond farewell,
And all the precious memories
That lived from bell to bell.
A fond farewell to classrooms,
And teachers' harried looks;
To basketball and football—
More interesting than books!
To soldier-rows of lockers,
Garrisoned in the halls,
Where many-a sweet five minutes
Left their imprints on the walls!
Where "steadies" stood and talked,
And seniors dared to scorn
The frightened little freshies,
Whose thoughts were so forlorn!
Good-bye to parties, dances—
To operettas, plays—
To trackmeets and to tourneys,
And oh, such happy days!
To clubs and other social life
Too much to mention here.
To that good old Southport High Song,
And a rousing Cardinal cheer!
Good-bye to all the things I leave—
A senior now, I stand
In cap and gown—alumnus soon—
Diploma in my hand.

THE PROM

Here, in the 1947 junior-senior reception, a lot of planning, and work, and fun, and oh, such memories were centered.

Juniors See Many Advances During Their Three Years at Southport

This class of juniors has seen three years of progress at Southport. In their freshman year they saw the establishment of the Quill and Scroll chapter, an F.B.L.A. club, and a Latin Club. When they were sophomores they watched juniors added to the Anchor staff for the first time. This year they were the first juniors to be allowed to take journalism. Spanish was offered for the first time; the Speakers' and Woodbutcher's clubs were added to the list. But the greatest step ahead they have beheld was the granting by the State of Indiana of a first-class commission to Southport High School. Next year, these juniors may plan to see more progress—new people, new honors, new clubs, and new classes.

1948 Sophomores Look Toward Greater Heights At Southport

By the time Southport pupils have reached their sophomore year, they have recovered from their freshman qualms and are ready to begin taking over the leadership of the school in social activities and athletics. More clubs are open to them in their second year—Woodbutcher's, Hi-Y, Latin, G.A.A. and Lettermen's Some sophomore boys even graduate from the reserve to the varsity teams. More sophomore names are found on club activity committees. Peggy Glenn, a sophomore, was one of the highest salesmen of the magazine drive. The Speakers' Club elected Ralph Yount, sophomore, as its president.

Two physical characteristics for which the '47-'48 class is known are its tall boys and its twins. Such towering fellows as Dave Bertram, Kenneth Montgomery, Louis Schmaldfeldt, and Jack Armstrong as well as other sophomore "giants" give the class a record in height. The twins include the Lipp girls—Joyce and Carol, the Osborns—David and Martha, and the Campbells—Charlie and Charlene. Charles was not able to attend high school this year because he is currently studying in Kentucky to be a jockey.

The big, purely sophomore social event of the year is the annual sophomore party. Of course they may always attend the "get-togethers" of the clubs to which they belong.

Pupils in their sophomore years find several new subjects open to them—Latin, Spanish, physical education, world history, typing, shop, and several others.

Aspiring Freshmen Use Progressiveness and Friendliness As They Look Ahead

The freshman year is a big year for any high school pupil . . . he begins his high school career. There are new people to meet, new courses to take, new activities to enter, and new steps in school life to begin. Last fall, two hundred forty-seven freshmen entered Southport High School, swelling the school population to seven hundred fifty-two.

This year the freshmen have achieved. For the first time a freshman was named to the Perry News staff as photographer. The basketball team won the county championship. The orchestra elected a freshman, Lois Fort, as one of its officers. Freshmen Anita Williams and Kathryn Dampier are two cheer leaders.

While freshmen naturally find fewer school activities open to them than to upperclassmen, the Speaker's Club was added to the list of organizations . . . Future Homemakers, Future Farmers, and Booster Club . . . as a club freshmen could join.

Most school social events with the exception of class parties are open to freshmen. Their big social event of the year is a picnic held in the spring.

During this first year of high school, pupils lay the foundation for future high school courses. Pupils planning to take a commercial course begin in their freshman year by taking general business. Those interested in industrial arts take mechanical drawing. Artistically or musically endowed pupils begin studying these courses. Probably the most valuable and universal freshman subject is guidance in which pupils study vocations and their own aptitudes.

Honor Organizations Set High Ideals

Progress in Southport High School is symboliged in the school's chapter of the National Honor Society. Membership in this organization does not depend upon the virtue of scholarship alone. All qualifications of all pupils are rated on a mathematical scale by the committee of teachers. These statistics were compiled through an efficient survey of each pupil's record. This record is made by each of the pupil's teachers in his high school career.

Quill and Scroll, an international honorary society for high school journalists, was organized at Southport in 1945. The chapter was named for Eugene C. Pulliam, owner and editor of The Indianapolis Star. The fundamental purpose of Quill and Scroll is to advance the standards of high school publications.

The Masculine Set Has Its Own Clubs

"To create, maintain, and extend throughout the school and community high standards of Christian character," is the purpose of the Southport Hi-Y Club.

In order to become a member a boy must be at least a sophomore, maintain average grades, and must have a high moral code. This year there are more than forty boys belonging. Their officers are Dale Bough, president; Bob Bidlack, vice-president; Carl Kauffman, secretary; Richard Miner, treasurer; Robert Manning, chaplain, and Marvin Christie, sergeant-at-arms.

Sponsored by Mr. Leichty, the club has been an active organization this year. The boys have sponsored three convocations for the student body, two skating parties, and a Father-Son Banquet.

The Letterman Club is an organization of Southport athletes who have earned a letter in one or more sports. All lettermen do not automatically become members of the club; they must participate in an informal initiation. No further qualifications are to be met, but each member must remain a loyal pupil and set good standards in his daily conduct.

The lettermen do not have duties of the school specifically assigned them, but they usher at basketball games and sell Booster plaques for cars.

Sponsored by Bert G. Haviland, football and wrestling coach, the boys' officers are Dale Karstedt, president; Wilbur Elsner, vice-president, and Benny Harbin, secretary-treasurer.

Active Girls Join G. A. A.

The Girls' Athletic Association is composed of sophomore, junior, and senior girls who have taken or are taking physical education.

Under the leadership of Mrs. Lucille Miller, this organization sponsors dances in honor of athletes, a talent show, and play nights for the girls.

The most important event during the school year is the formal athletic dance in May. At this dance the coaches present awards and letter sweaters to those boys who have earned them. To the most outstanding G.A.A. girl, a trophy with her name engraved on it is presented and placed in the trophy case..

Awards are also given to those girls who have been active members for three years and have participated in seventy-five per cent of all the club's activities. In addition to this dance, which is in honor of all the athletes, there is one in February in honor of the basketball players, and still another in the fall in honor of the football players.

The new officers of the G.A. A. are Betty Goebel, president; Della May Hartley, vice-president; Lillian Smith, secretary, and Dorothy Huck, treasurer. The out-going officers are Betty Anderson, president; Margie Tuttle, vice-president; Anne Wade, secretary, and Mary Lou Baker, treasurer. Miss Virginia Kelly as sponsor is serving during Mrs. Miller's leave of absence.

Southport Girls Have Their Clubs, Too

The Senior-ority is an organization whose purpose is to aid the development of a well-rounded personality in junior and senior girls. Social, informative, and religious meetings are held to introduce the girls to situations they will meet in later life.

Activities of the group include the initiation, Thanksgiving and Christmas programs, the decoration of the Christmas tree in the hall the week before vacation, and the Mother and Daughter Tea.

The Senior-ority helps girls to round out their school life and prepare for maturity with all types of events.

Miss Blanche Penrod, the sponsor, is an excellent example of her doctrines in her duty as Dean of Girls and as sponsor. Officers are Joan O'Brien, president; Rose Jeffries, vice-president; Maxine Haines, secretary; and Betty Watts, treasurer.

Top: The junior members of Senior-ority pose with Miss Penrod and officers.

Homemakers Of The Future Practice Now

This club is open to any girl who has had one semester of home economics training. Its motto is "Toward New Horizons"; its colors are red and white; its flower is the red rose.

Each member strives to win the highest degree of achievement. The four degrees and their symbols are: Junior Homemaker—Key; Chapter Homemaker—Scroll; State Homemaker—Torch; American Homemaker—Rose.

The Southport chapter under the leadership of Mrs. Margaret Lowdermilk is one of 2,487 chapters in the United States and Hawaii, and the only chapter in Marion County.

Farmers-To-Be Know What They Want

To become a member of the Future Farmers of America a boy must be enrolled in vocational agriculture. Membership is attained through a number of degrees. Next to the highest is "State Farmer" and the top degree is "American Farmer." Roy Bader achieved the "State Farmer" classification last year. Other boys attempting the same this year were Oscar Stone, Jim Flickinger, and Tommy Thompson.

The officers leading the forty-four members this year were as follows: Oscar Stone, president; Robert Bader, vice-president; Jim Flickinger, secretary; Arthur Rahke, reporter, and Bruce Smith, treasurer.

Some of the principal activities of the organization have been a Father and Son Banquet and a summer camping trip to a state park.

S. H. S. BOOSTERS WORK HARD . . .

The Booster Club is the only organization in Southport High School to which any student may belong. It sponsors one dance each year for the entertainment of the students and former members of the club, usually in celebration of some athletic event.

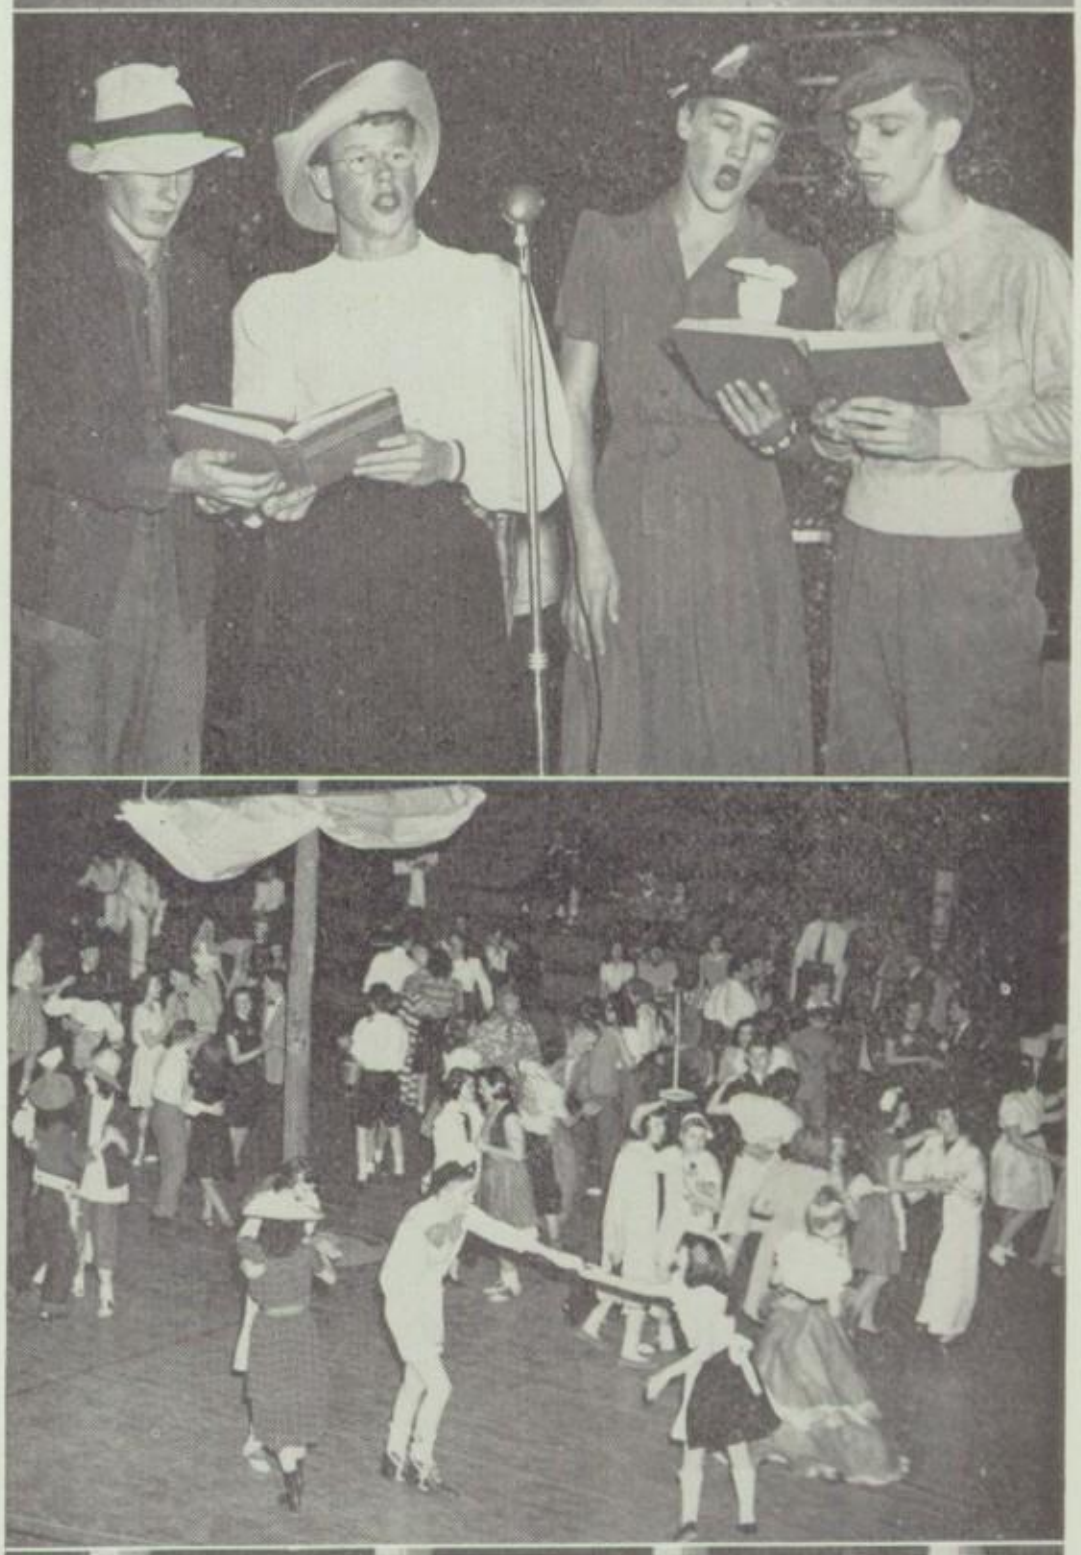
The principal duty of the Booster Club is to encourage the school spirit. Because of this, the club sponsors pep-sessions given before each important athletic contest.

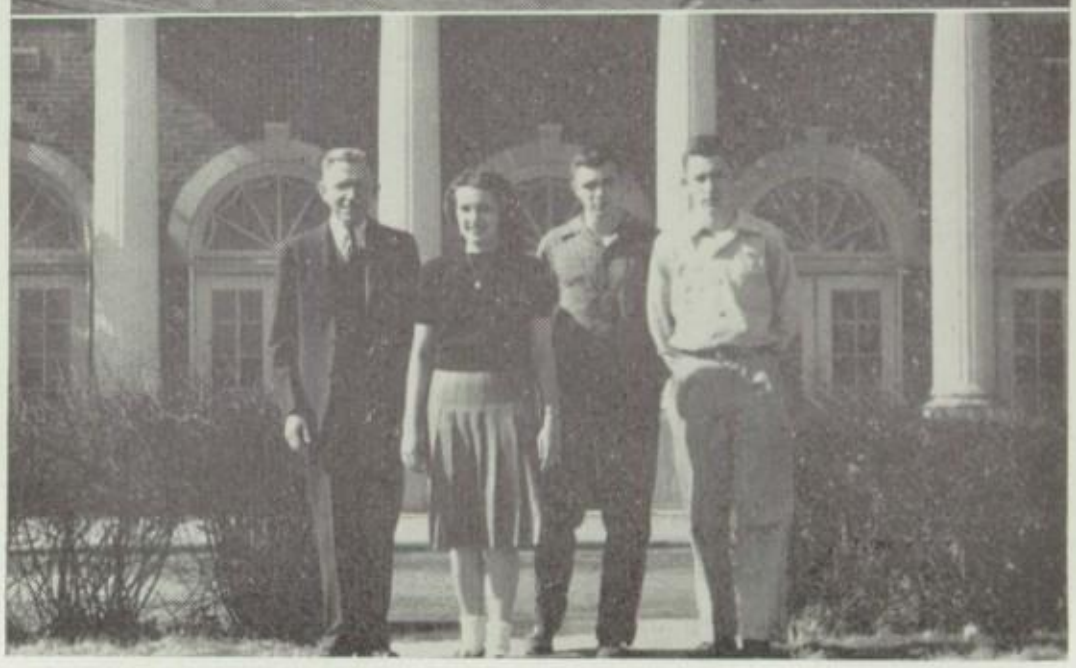
Planning of these pep-sessions and the dance is the duty of the officers—Marvin Christie, president; Dale Bough, vice-president; Betty Anderson, secretary-treasurer, and the sponsor, Mr. Kellam.

At each pep-session a skit, lasting from ten to twenty minutes, which portrays the school spirit is presented by a school club.

At the beginning of the school year, five yell leaders from a corps of try-outs are chosen to lead yells during the season and to encourage school spirit. This year they are Don Hartley, Anita Williams, and the Dampier sisters—Barbara, Suzanne, and Kathryn.

The pictures down the page are of a dance, the officers, one of the numerous skits, and the yell leaders in practice in the front lobby.





Latina Progrediuntur—They Go Forth in Latin

Cognovistine Latinam? Non? If you don't know Latin, then you're missing out on some of the gaiety and fun provided by the Latin Club. Divided into beginning and advanced classes, the club celebrates the traditional Roman festivals, particularly the Stygian Revels, or Halloween, the Saturnalia, and the Lupercalia. Under the guidance of Mrs. Elsa Majors, Latin teacher, the club meets in regular club periods, after school, or occasionally during class time. Roman customs are carefully studied and preserved. This is shown by the election of Roman officials as club officers—Consuls, Quaestors, and Idyles.

Through the various activities of the Latin Club, students find the study of Latin a more interesting subject.

Student Representatives Help Administration

The Student Organization, which is under the leadership of C. C. Leedy, principal, is composed of a representative of each home room and the class officers. Its functions consist of sponsoring the magazine drive, Community Fund Drive and other projects to aid the school and community. The officers are Bob Bidlack, president; Dick Maffett, vice-president; and Betty Anderson, secretary.

Would Be Business Men and Women Look Ahead

In 1945 the F. B. L. A. club of Southport High School was granted its charter by the National Organization and became a member of the State Organization.

Juniors and seniors with four credits in commercial subjects and maintaining high grades may be chosen for the club.

The sponsors are Mrs. Margaret Janert, Mrs. Nelle Weaver, and Elwood Miller, who are assisted by Jean Sebastian, president; Mary Frances Hummer, vice-president; Delores Koch, secretary; Arthella Johnson, treasurer; and the two state officers: Betty Anderson, second vice-president; Mary Frances Hummer, treasurer.

Speech Makers Tune Up

Progress was made at Southport this year when the Speakers' Club was added to the growing list of school organizations. Under the direction of Mrs. Kathleen Ritchie, public speaking teacher, members present plays and programs, hold theater parties, and practice readings and pantomimes. All freshmen, sophomores, juniors and seniors who are interested in public speaking and who attend meetings regularly are included in the club.

"Woodbutchers" Set To Work

A new organization at Southport is the Woodbutchers' or Craft Club. To be eligible for membership boys must have had one year of shop or two years of mechanical drawing instruction.

The charter members have bi-monthly meetings called "work nights." At these times the boys work on their projects and have a recreation period. Plans are being made for basketball games and parties.

Some of their projects have included end tables, telephone stands, whatnots, shelves, book-ends, book cases, and record holders.

The following officers served this past year: Bill Sawyer, president; Ed Frazier, vice-president; Bob Ransdell, secretary.

Picture above: Club has a regular meeting to "talk it over" in the shop room.

Librarians and Office Girls Help Faculty

Each period two girls, who are taking a commercial course or are interested in office work, work in the administration offices. They run errands, ring bells, collect absentee slips, type, and answer the phone, thus freeing the principal, vice principal, and dean of girls from such tedious tasks. In addition to the regular force, there are extra girls who help Walter G. Kellam, vice-principal, at the beginning of every grade period with the recording of grades.

Two girls assist Mrs. Alice Black, librarian, in the library each period and before school. They stamp books and cards, file cards, shelve books and magazines, help pupils choose books, and run errands for Mrs. Black, relieving her for the more important tasks that school librarians have.

Secretaries and Traffic Boys Also Help Things Run Smoothly

Each year Mr. Elwood Miller, typing teacher, prepares a list of capable typists which is given to the faculty. From this list each teacher selects the girl he or she wishes to serve as his secretary for the school year.

These secretaries are often unsung heroines in the work they do. Running errands, mimeographing tests, and typing letters are some of their duties.

Under the sponsorship of Ray Linson of the industrial arts department, the Traffic Club parks all cars attending Southport's major evening events—football and basketball games, plays, concerts, and operettas. The Traffic Boys are admitted free to these events.

The club is divided into three squads which rotate their duties at the events. At the end of their work, the boys receive raincoats in return for the unsung service they had given the school.

Captains of the three squads of seven each are, squad one, Jim Osborne, two, Bob Brunning, and three, Dick Prather.

Journalistic Minds Publish The Perry News

The year 1947-1948 marks the 25th birthday of the Perry News, a monthly newspaper published by the two journalism classes. It is a recorder of progress at Southport. A staff chosen from the classes is supervised by Miss Marie Fraser, journalism and English teacher.

The publication has been granted membership in the International Quill and Scroll Organization, The National Scholastic Press Association, and the Indiana High School Press Association. The paper won third place in the Sigma Delta Chi journalism contest sponsored by Indiana University.

The staff as named by Miss Fraser is as follows:

Editor-in-chief ..... Dolores Nerding
Managing Editor ..... Nancy Hendricks
Associate Editor ..... Ann Montgomery
Assistant Editors ..... Della May Hartley, Peggy Nabring.
Feature Editor ..... Beverly Baird
Feature Writers .... Pat Miller, Elsa Carter, Jackie Englehart.
News Editor ..... Donna Kornbroke
Sports Editor ..... Bob Carpenter

Bigness and Friendliness Mix To Make The 1948 Anchor

The SPONSOR, editor-in-chief, and assistant editor pose for their own pic at a staff meeting.

One of the most important organizations of the school is the Anchor staff, composed of junior and senior pupils and sponsored by Mrs. Elsa Majors. This staff serves as an integral part of the school year in its publication of the year-book. Few students realize the work and expense put into each year's Anchor.

WORKING HARD on copy, pics, mounting, and pasting are the assembled members of the Anchor staff. Junior members serve as aspiring apprentices to the "big" seniors.

The Band Spends Its Time "Playing Around"

One of the important organizations in our school, both in achievement and service, is the band. With the aid of pretty majorettes and new colorful lights and handy music folios, the band, under the capable leadership of Ivan Warble, performs interesting and spectacular marching shows at our football and basketball games.

The band participates in all pep sessions and special convocations and thereby adds color and entertainment to these occasions.

The Southport band, in conjunction with several other high school bands, took part in a music clinic in March. In the district contest at Bloomington many soloists and ensembles, made up of band members, won first and second division ratings. In the state contest at Terre Haute there were fourteen first division winners in the organization. The big night of the year for the instrumental music departments was the spring concert, presented by the orchestra and band.

The band made its final appearance of the year on the commencement program.

The Orchestra Concerns Itself With Melodies

The Southport Orchestra, directed by Ivan Warble of the instrumental music department, has several opportunities to display their talents each year. It is called upon to play at the special religious programs at Christmas and also provides the music for the junior and senior plays. The annual operetta is produced in co-operation with the vocal music department.

This year the orchestra and the band gave a joint concert in the spring. The orchestral productions require extra time and practice which are seldom realized by the student body.

Each year orchestra officers are elected by the members. They are Elinor Moeller, president; Elsa Carter, vice president; and Lois Fort, secretary-treasurer.

Ivan Warble explains just how he wants it to his instrumental talents

SOME SCENES BEHIND THE BATON . . .

The loyal "band crew" is busily engaged in setting the stage for the day's practice. Members Morris Fix, Bill Sawyer, and Wilbur Craig are assisting.

"You're hep today!" says Bob Fort, trombone player, to Wendell Leedy with the clarinet. Bill Sawyer, president of the band, supervises.

It's a tense moment. Mr. Warble gives the signal, raises the baton, and out flows—flat notes!

Practicing for their duties with the band at ball games are twirlers LaDonna Dailey, Betty Goebel, Margie Tuttle, Phyllis Jensen, and Patty Tuttle.

The 1947 Easter Service Sunrise Service was enriched by Mrs. Charmion Kaiser and the advanced choir singing "God So Loved the World" by Stainer and "Finlandia" by Sibelius. As the weather was disagreeable, the service was held indoors.

"REJOICE, BE GLAD, AND SING"—TRILLS THE CHORUS

Thanksgiving, Christmas, Easter, and Baccalaureate services are greatly enhanced by the high school choir. Directed this year by Mrs. Gyneth Luginbill, the pupils gain experience through public appearances and learn the fundamentals of music. In the fall they participate in the State Choral Festival and in the spring a quota is sent to the Marion County Choral Festival. At Christmas time several pupils carol on the steps of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument in Indianapolis.

Throughout the year concerts are given at different churches and schools by choral groups for different organizations. Each year the advanced students enter ensembles or solos in the District or State Contest which is held each spring. Much is gained through this activity by pupils and teachers alike. A number of awards and medals have been given to this outstanding music department.

Forming a Christmas tree with red and white robes for the annual holiday program, the Southport High School choir is shown with Mrs. Luginbill, choral director. Traditional carols and gusty folk songs were sung in the typical Yuletide spirit.

Musical Dramatics Are Productive

Every year the vocal department produces an operetta which provides funds for the purchasing of records, choir robes, and music. Last year, "The Belle of Barcelona," a musical three-act comedy, was produced under the direction of Mrs. Charmion Kaiser. The operetta took place in Spain and was influenced by beautiful Spanish music and rhythmic Spanish dances. The colorful costumes, worn by the dancers and chorus, were appropriate for the stage settings. A few of the main characters were George Huber, Mary Jo McCallister, Nancy Ford, Wanda Storey, Russell Sanderson, Jack White, Mike Sinclair, Edwin Clark, Beverly Cox, Richard Miner, and Stephen Osborn.

This year the new director, Mrs. Gyneth Luginbill, and her six vocal music classes, furnished the school with the lively operetta, "Pickles." Nancy Ford, Russell Sanderson, Ed Clark, Maxine Haines, and David Walton were a few of the main characters.

Senior Actors and Actresses Give Their All

One of the big events at Southport is the senior play given in the fall to raise funds for the Anchor. This year's play, directed by Mrs. Elsa Majors, was "Strictly Formal," a gay comedy about a typical group of teenagers and their problems. The big problem of the girls in the play was to obtain dates for a dance. Jane Cutler, Betty Anderson, and Sally, Rosemary Arndt, had almost succeeded in getting their respective boy friends, George Ahern, Bob Bidlack, and Jim, Allen Winkle, to ask them, but Sally's man-eating cousin, Marcia comes to town from New York and quickly adds George and Jim to her collection of males. Both girls then turn to Elroy, Marvin Christie, who is already being pursued by Marilyn, Judy Morgan, and Rose Tilton, Mary Frances Hummer. It takes Cindy Collins, Dolores Nerding, from Duceyville, Iowa, to solve the problem but she has tussles with mumps, prize winning chrsyanthemums and family feuds before she gets every girl a date.

Junior Thespians Try On Mask Of Comedy

Future Katherine Cornells and Maurice Evanses of the junior class present the class play in the spring to raise money for the Junior-Senior Reception. Last year the play Mrs. Ritchie directed the juniors in was "You Can't Take It With You," a comedy by George Kauffman and Moss Hart which was a successful Broadway play and Hollywood movie. Dale Bough plays the part of Grandpa, who shows a wealthy couple, Bill Stumph and Anne Wade, that there are some things you can't take with you and that the really happy people are the ones who live for different things. It's a philosophy the rest of that topsy-turvy household catches.

This year the juniors presented "The Great Big Door Step," a comedy portraying the life of the Cojans of Louisiana. It tells of the attempts of the Crochet family headed by Elsa Carter and Ernest Eaton, to get a house that would do justice to a magnificent door step they found on the Mississippi.

Behind the Footlights

Dancing into the limelight are these boys and girls who furnished much of the fun and gaiety which accompanied last year's operetta, "The Belle of Barcelona." The fiesta dancers are, left to right, Bill Whitaker, Maxine Haines, Bob MacBeth, Dorothy VanWinkle, Merrill Christie, Berdinamae Bernlour, Kenneth Wheeler, Maxine Foster, Glen Wilson, and Dolores Boles.

Seniors talking over plans for the annual senior play, "Strictly Formal," are, seated, Virginia Hohn, and Rosemary Arndt, and standing, Marvin Christie, Dolores Nerding, and Bob Bidlack.

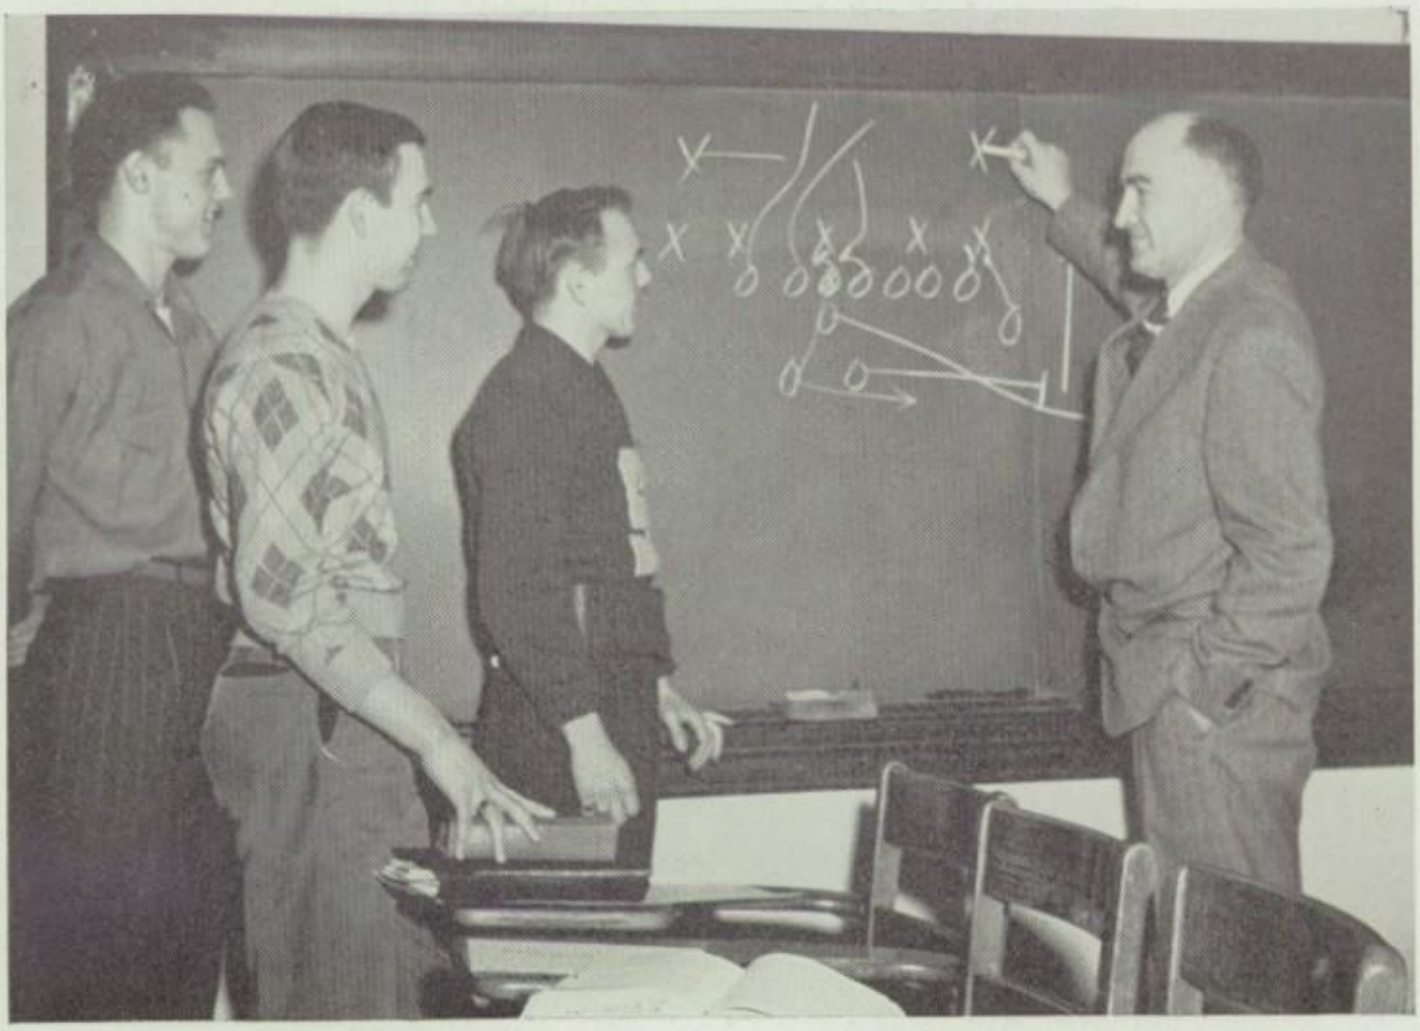
Athletics



Coach Haviland works up a hot play on the black board with part of his team.

1947 Varsity Starts School Athletic Year

Although the record for 1947 is not impressive, the team was a hard fighting bunch that was hard for anyone to tackle.

Practice, guided by Coach Bert G. Haviland, starts before school each year. The fruits of this hard work are shown by the fact that Southport was beaten by only one county rival. Defeats were suffered at the hands of larger city schools.

The varsity lettermen are as follows: Ray Bertram, Kenney Wheeler, George Shafer, Dale Bough, Jack Whitaker, Glen Wilson, Dan Skinner, Harry Arthur, Russell Sanderson, Bob MacBeth, Dick Maffett, Archie Eller, Tom Swift, Richard Baker, Clarence Long, Wendell Jones, Bob Jaus, Dave Bertram, Bill Smith, Bob Wheeler, Bob Manning.

The teams captain was junior Bob Wheeler. Glen Wilson was an all-county guard and Dale Bough received honorable mention.

The team record is as follows:

			Opp	S.P.
September	5	Warren Central	0	6
	12	Ben Davis	7	0
	19	Lawrence Central	6	6
	26	Shortridge	46	0
October	3	Cathedral	6	7

Reserve and Frosh Hold Down Jobs, Too

From Edgewood Grade School, coach McDaniels migrated to Southport High School's stadium each afternoon to guide a Freshman team to a 6-6 tie with Broad Ripple, and defeat at the hands of Shortridge, 0-0, Tech, 0-7, Howe, 0-26, Washington, 7-9. The boys rallied sufficiently to down Manual's frosh by a score of 21-20. The Frosh were Bill Byrum, Carl Brehob, Mitchell Cheatham, Bob Egenaff, Jerry Grummell, Ken Harbin, Glenn Hager, George Holdereth, J. Huber, John Hurrle, Charles Johnson, Dick Jordan, Gene Kirby, Art Leary, Lee McGathey, John Pittman, Ken Puckett, Charles Rathsman, Charles Rau, Jerry Rhinehart, Jack Sealey, Don Gillum, Don Stovall, Don Johnson, Marvin Sweeney, Jack Swift, Don Milenbaugh.

Under the guidance of coach Kenneth Wasson, of the industrial arts department, the hard-practicing and seldom appreciated reserve football team built up a record of three victories from Shortridge, 31-7, Ben Davis, 14-7, and Manual, 27-0, at the end of the season. They were defeated by Cathedral, 7-13, Tech, 0-14, and Howe, 6-26.

Reserve boys are often being interchanged with the varsity. Those who weren't named on the varsity are as follows: Clarence Long, Dave Bertram, William Smith, Tom Riggs, Jim Fryman, Joe Hurrle, Jack Hall, Art Hagerty, and Bob Baker.

Southport Wrestlers

All "Wrapped Up In Work"

Southport's Cards again had a good wrestling record to show for countless hours of hard work.

Coached by Bert Haviland and captained by Harry Arthur, the Cards defeated Anderson, Lafayette, and Shortridge in duel meets, while losing in two meets with Crawfordsville.

The Cards finished seventh in the State meet, with five of the twelve boys making up the winning places.

Bob Ransdell grabbed second place in the 103 pound class to show the way. Other boys placing were Harry Arthur, third, and Dick Maffett, Bill Calaway, and Dale Bough, fourth.

Basketball Varsity Downs Old Rivals

In his second year of coaching at Southport, Jewell Young led his basketball squad through another successful season. Interspersed with several defeats, the record is still a worthy one which shows why the team added such difficult opponents to the defeated lists.

The 1947-1948 varsity began the season as follows: Marvin Christie, Ray Bertram, Kenney Wheeler, Bob Wheeler, Bob Jaus, Richard Miner, Bill Stumph, Bob Bidlack, Bob Boltz, Horton Smith, Glen Wilson, and Richie Theil. As the season progressed, the reserve and varsity interchanged several players. Among those receiving upper-team berths were Jack Armstrong, Dave Bertram, and Louis Schmalfeldt.

Teams defeated were Elwood, Center Grove, Washington, Lawrence Central, Shortridge, Cathedral, Decatur Central, Warren Central, Franklin Township, North Vernon, and Howe. This does not include the sectionals.

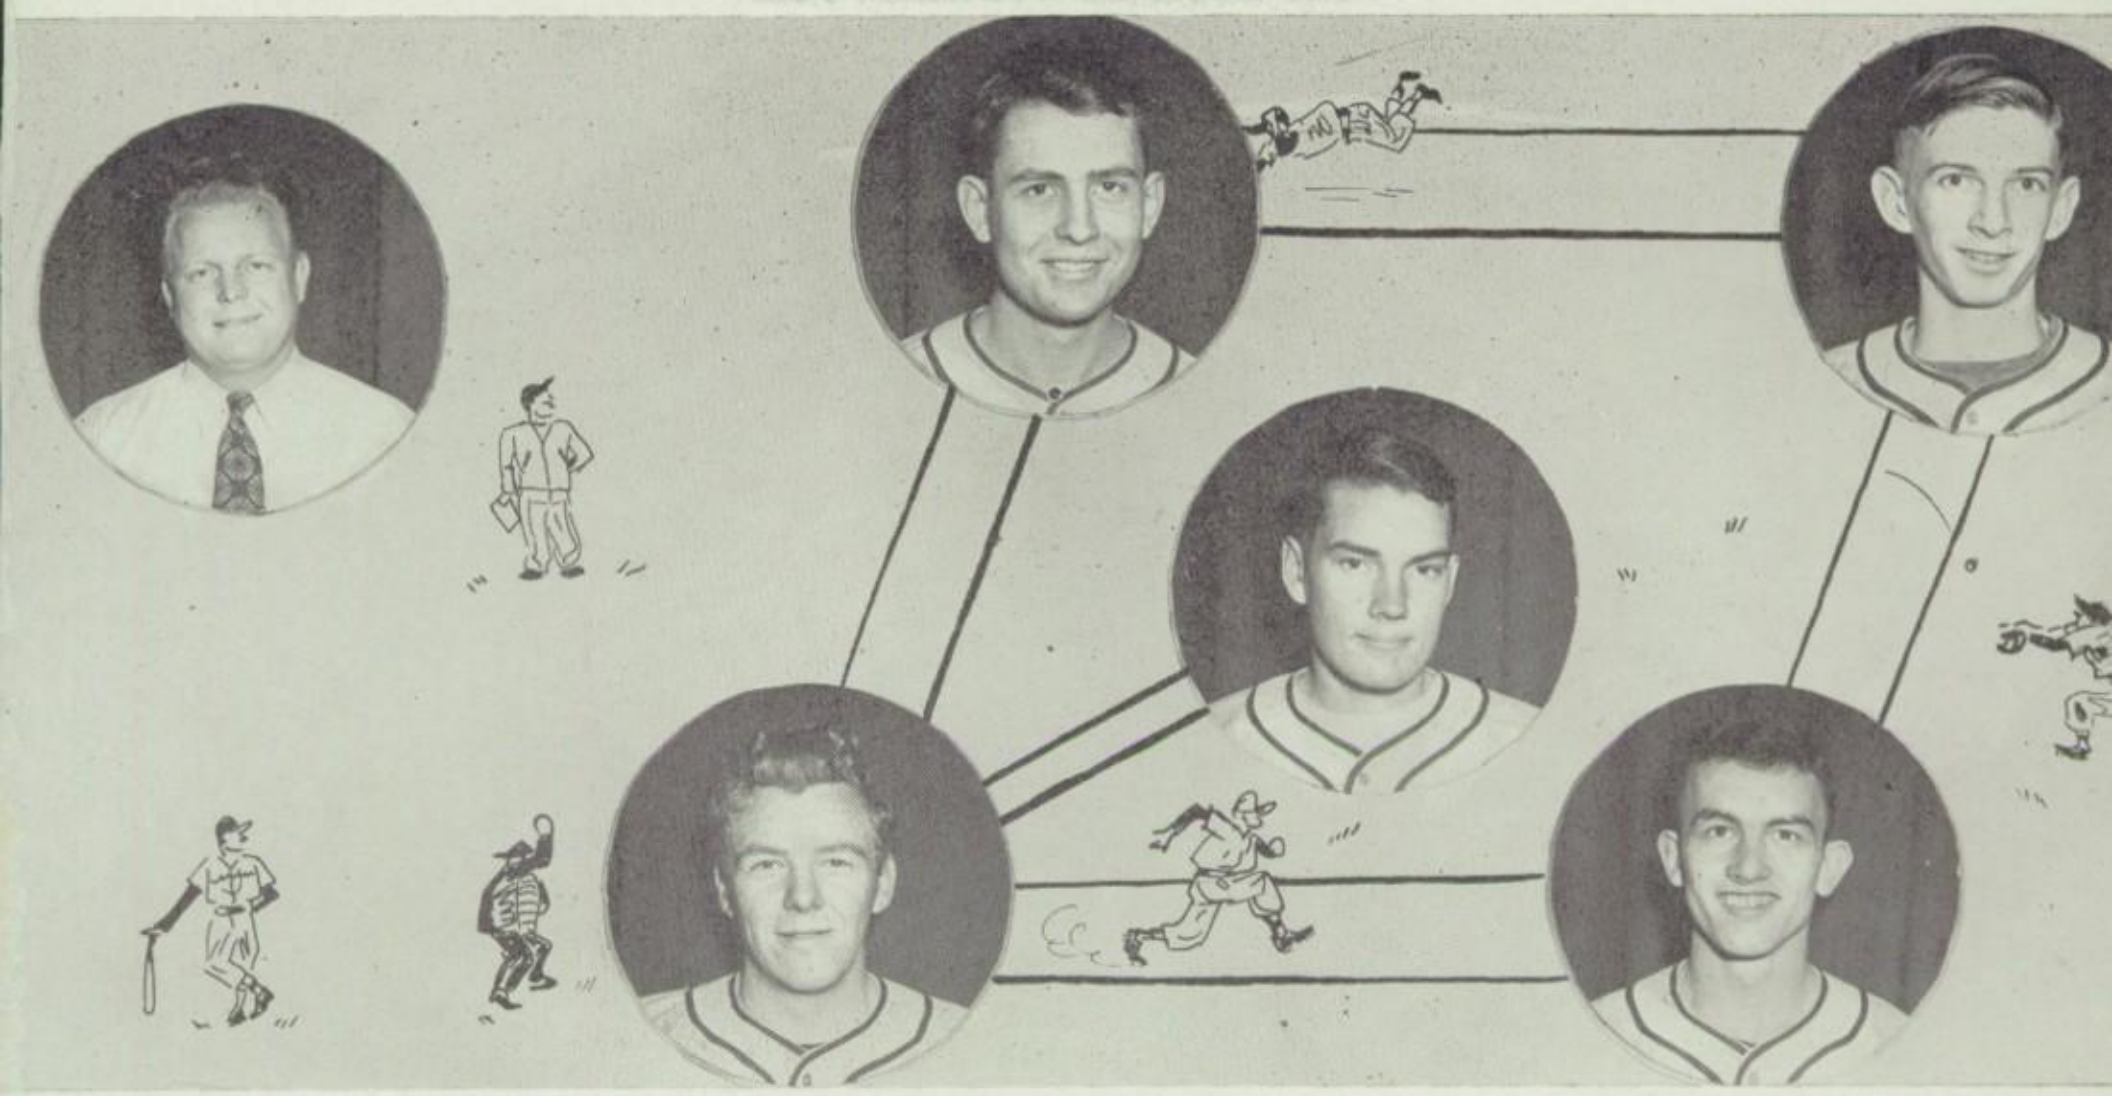
The freshman basketball had a very successful year in 16 victories and 4 defeats. They captured the county freshman title and conquered many of the state's best frosh teams.

At the end of the season, several players were promoted to the reserve team.

Headed by Coach Ken Wasson the reserve team, almost completely composed of sophomores, provided plenty of thrills and excitement in their pre-varsity games.



Baseball Lettermen All Ready For '48 Games

Coach Ray Linson's 1947 Southport Baseball Squad won seven games while dropping five. Many strong teams were on the Card's schedule, including Male of Louisville, Kentucky State Champions; Garfield of Terre Haute, the Wabash Valley Kingpins; and Ben Davis, Marion County leaders.

Returning lettermen include pitchers Gene Dietz, Dale Karstedt, and Brad Fort, infielders Dick Theil and Dick Miner, and catcher Dale Craig.

Returning Trackmen Clean Out Spikes

The spring of 1947 saw Southport High School thinly-clads lose 6 meets yet muster all their skill and energy to place a surprising third in the county track meet. As a result of this several of the harriers went on to compete in the sectionals.

Lettermen who returned in 1948 are Bob Bidlack, Benny Harbin, Horton Smith, Bob Jaus, and Russell Sanderson, all upperclassmen.

Feminine Athletes Use Up Their Energy, Too

After spending the war years training every physically fit girl in Southport to be a healthy individual, the school has modified its schedule by making physical education compulsory for one year and also by offering advanced classes in physical education or rhythmics to upper class girls.

Mrs. Miller, "phizz-ed" teacher for several years, left and was replaced by Miss Virginia Kelly at the beginning of the second semester.

"Hail to Thee, Our Southport High . . ."

Although Southport High School has had an original pep song beginning "Hail to Southport High!" for many years, it has not had a serious Alma Mater song. This was remedied by seniors Nancy Ford and Dolores Nerding who wrote the original music and words respectively. Written during the second semester, the song was harmonized for choral singing and orchestrated. It is recorded at the United States Patent Office. This Alma Mater song was composed at the suggestion of the journalism department.

ALMA MATER SONG

Hail to thee, our Southport High—
Alma Mater true.
Faithful, ever loyal, we
Shall remain to you.
Red and white, bind us fast
To the days of yore.
We will laud thee, Southport High,
Praise thee evermore.

Hear our vow to ever trust,
Ever honor thee,
In the days of youth spent here,
Through eternity.
Though the years fast may fly,
And our youth be gone,
We will ne'er forget thee,
Marching ever on.

3 MORE TEAMS BOW TO S. H. S. QUINTET

Cumberland, Greenwood and Whiteland Fall Before Red and White.

S. H. S. GIRLS WIN TWO GAMES

The Cumberland Normal ball team was defeated 18 to 11 by Southport's Prep team, Nov. 17. The game was not up to the usual standard and was devoid of thrills. Klein was out of the game on account of sickness and Exler and Murphy were substituted. Each played a good game and showed up well. Cumberland scored first, followed soon after by Southport, who secured the lead but never lost it again, first ended 8 to 3.

Southport opened the second half with a rush and secured a 14 to 3 lead and this was held until Cumberland scored. Then they scored again, making the score 18 to 11, and the whistle blew.

The Cumberland girls were defeated in a very fast game by a score of 5-4. Tan Cumberland girls had a fast offensive and a good passing game. Ruth Betts, Agnes Catherine and Gladys played a good game for Southport. The Cumberland girls fought until the very end.

Friday night, Nov. 24, the Greenwood teams came to Southport to receive revenge for a defeat administered by the local quintet earlier in the season but were unable to do so and were defeated 32-12. The Southport Girls defeated the Greenwood Girls 4 to 3.

The game started fast, Southport leading with fast passes and fine team work. Jones of Southport opened the scoring with two short shots close under the basket, giving Southport a lead of 4 points before Greenwood scored on a free throw. Brown and Fishback held Greenwood in the Southport "air tight" defense and were

EDGEWOOD

The chicken dinner given by the P. T. A. of Edgewood Saturday evening, November 25, was a splendid success. $78.53 was taken in.

The County Doctor and Nurse examined the pupils of Edgewood school Tuesday, Nov. 28.

Miss Cowan of the Fletcher Trust and Savings Company, gave a talk on "Thrift" at the November meeting of the P. T. A of Edgewood, which was very much enjoyed by all present.

The piano bought two months ago by the P. T. A. of Edgewood for the school is all paid for except $75.

The next regular meeting of the P. T. A. of Edgewood will be held Friday Dec 8.

Earl Harding of Edgewood, has been through a very severe illness. Doctors said he had one chance in a thousand. However, he is getting along nicely now.

FRESHMEN SCRAPS

The Freshmen class will lose one of its distinguished members when Paul Hayward moves to Columbus.

The Freshmen class challenged the Sophomore class to a basket ball game Friday, Nov. 24. The final score was 19 to 16. Our speedy coach, Mr. Julian, is overjoyed with the prospects of having a six-room Freshman team.

Hubert Orme and Robert Leonard are being detained at the homes on account of illness.

"Didn't school glorious" said Paul Koch Burnett when he found that we are going to have to have a two day vacation. He loves to run his Lizzie around.

AFFIRMATIVE WINS IN SENIOR CLASS DEBATE

Strong Argument Presented On Educational Theme—Play Committee At Work.

The Seniors of S. H. S had a very interesting debate on Monday, Nov. 27. Their subject was: Resolved: That the city child has more educational advantages than the child living in the rural districts.

Miss Betts, Florine Smith and Sherman Price, were the debaters of the affirmative and Robert Hodgin, George Dodson and Jack Williams those of the negative. Both the affirmative and the negative presented many strong points and the debate was an interesting one. The decision of the judges, Mrs. George Ross, the Rev. T. V. Dillon, and the Rev. Harman, was in favor of the affirmative.

The committee appointed by the class president to select a suitable class play have found one or two very clever plays and are sure the class will be satisfied. The Seniors are going to make their class play a big success.

Miss Mary Hoefgen, former student of S. H. S. visited Ruth Derbyshire Monday and Tuesday of last week. Mary will attend S. H. S. next semester.

Already the seniors are getting nervous. Why? The grade cards come out Wednesday.

With a grasp as of a dying fish the seniors realize that half of their last year is drawing to a close. Oh Horrors!!

1st Boy—Milt Spees is awfully dumb.

2nd Boy—How's that?

1st Boy—Why, he thinks Brooklyn Bridge is a new kind of game.

Betty Smith, one of the star basket ball players, was injured while playing against Greenwood Friday evening. The injury is not serious and we hope she will soon recover.

Gladys Champlin, one of the Juniors' most promising students, has moved from her home in Glenns Valley to Indianapolis, where she will attend Technical High School.

Robert and Eugene have been admitted to English class after a day's absence, which they were invited to take.

Florence Green, a small Junior, will some day make some one a splendid typist. She can chew gum at the same time with great speed.

Edna, Florence and Betty's ears ache from hearing, "Honorable Horrors." We wish the Seniors would get another by-word.

Helen Banta seemingly dignified Junior, astonished every one by remarking in typewriting class, "I believe in making things snappy."

There is a great demand for ink erasers among the Juniors. Surely they don't use them in typewriting class. Ask Edna!

Gladys Bowman spent her Thanksgiving vacation at Burlington, Ind. visiting relatives.

THANKSGIVING IS WIDELY OBSERVED

Perry Township Schools Settle Down After Short Vacation Period.

The schools of Perry Township have settled down again after the short Thanksgiving vacation. The great day passed here in the same fine spirit that it did all over the country.

Last Thursday, Nov. 23, with the coming of dawn, the people of the United States arose to begin the many festivities which commemorate Thanksgiving.

Many a turkey shrank from the sight of the threatening axe, only the next moment to become a lifeless body going through the last stages of dressing preparatory to the trip to the oven.

But did every oven boast that honor? Oh, no. Many a family living in the tenement districts of our larger cities had no turkey and more than that, in some cases, nothing at all to eat. What could they give thanks for? Seemingly, there was nothing. They had no money, no heat, not enough clothing in some cases, and not a man in the family to make a living. What could they give thanks for?

The meeting is answered by a story that happened that very day in New York.—A little girl had arisen early and having slept in her scanty clothes for months, it was unnecessary to dress, also there was no water or no wash but the little child smiled [illegible] smile that would touch the heart of a miser. All morning she helped her mother wash and then at dinner time, Thanksgiving dinner, her

This year the Perry News celebrates its twenty-fifth birthday. The copy of an early paper shown above was furnished by Reverend Richard Williams, pastor of the Greensburg Presbyterian Church, who was the first editor of the paper. The picture originally appeared in the Perry News last fall. On the following pages are a few of the pictures the paper has printed showing the big events, little events, big people, little people at Southport.
